

NJ residents are entitled to their privacy and unlisted phone numbers are not enough to stop the sales calls. Telemarketers can reach people more effectively without being an annoyance by sending their messages through the U.S. mail. Residents can read the material at their own convenience and decide if they want more information.